Freight House, Historic Village

300 Dorothy Street

Come take a step back in time with us to the 1920's, when the Walled Lake Casino opened in 1925, and was followed by the Amusement Park in 1929. The thrill of the new amusement park was the wooden rollercoaster called "The Flying Dragon". The park also offered a two-story waterslide, two boardwalks, speed boat rides, a bathhouse to change in, and many other attractions. People would come from miles around to spend the day picnicking, swimming, and enjoying all the excitement the park had to offer. There was also a dance pavilion that brought in many big name bands and singers from the 20's through to the early 60's.

Come find out more about this amazing park that attracted so many people and what happened to it, as our special presenter, Kathy Crawford, shares its history, demise, and what has been done to preserve its memory.
